

Knowledge and Skills Used New Physics Bachelors Employed in STEM Fields

Frequency of use data includes new physics bachelors from the classes of 2019 and 2020 combined that indicated they held a position in a STEM field. STEM refers to positions in natural science, technology, engineering, and math. The frequency of skill use question was asked on a four-point scale that also included a “never or rarely category.”